Subject: Chat with Mark Cohen
From: Mark Cohen <mark.simon.cohen@gmail.com>
To: barriticus@gmail.com

Mark: what's new in bushwick?
Mark: or, pundit-land for that matter me: on the last paragraph of the book, coincidentally me: then it goes to the press tomorrow me: ships in March me: released in April Mark: nice me: running magazine out of our apartment me: gonna do a bunch of video projects Mark: i saw that bit you posted online me: oh, the boots Mark: looked pretty good me: yeah, it's a sweet camera Mark: i meant from the book me: you should come by some time me: oh, gotcha
Mark: you going to be working on finishing touches today, or are you ready to drink to a second book in the bag?
me: will be done in five minutes Mark: i happen to have a bottle of very fine bourbon sitting in the filing cabinet in my office at school, which I could bring out me: very well me: actually, tonight might be bad me: I was up all night last night me: finishing this up me: will probably crash at some point before you even arrive me: anytime tomorrow or after for the perpetual future will be good, though Mark: that makes sense me: got plans Friday?
Mark: nope me: got a bit of an interesting gathering in the works for Friday, so come by then me: some clever chick who's going to be working with us on video projects, for instance Mark: fri night?
me: oops, I'd better finish this book, back in a little while me: yeah me: or whenever on Friday Mark: k

Mark: sounds interesting, as you say